Orthon.

On last Monday at the close of our review the market had just turned the corrent. The week previous the market in New York and Liverpool ruled dull with a downward tendency; but after the receipts of last week began to arrive, the market turned, and on Monday cotton advanced in this market \(\frac{1}{16} \) \(\frac{1}{16} \ the our metropolitan buyers would february 5. 14,261 15,152 15,152 15,152 15,150 15,152 15,150 15,15 market fluctuated somewhat during the week, the tendency was upward, as the close of the week shows, gaining the highest point resched this season. The receipts are the cause of the upward movenent. For last week they were only week in 1871, and 120,813 last week. For Saturday the beginning of this weeks receipts were 11,350 bales, against 13,675, 17,-475, and 22,088 of the corresponding ods of the three preceding weeks. ence in these figures has determined, as we remarked, the course of both Liver pool and New York. The former market has advanced since last review %d, with a strong and active market at the close of the week. Should the receipts for this week be only $5,000 or 90,000 bales, we week be only $5,000 or $9,000 bales, we may expect midaling cotton in New York to go to 23%c, if not a shade higher. As fortifying the position the APPEAL has always taken as to high prices, we copy from the New York Dry Goods Reporter American.

The receipts at the seaports weekly for mistaken in calculating too largely on a the present and the three preceding seamaintenance of the present prices. But sons to date, compare as follows: maintenance of the present prices. But on this point the indications are very satisfactory. The consumption of cotton is increasing in a ratio greater than the apparent supply. The cotton consuming capacity of England has increased during the last two years 13 per cent. It amounted in 1871 to a maximum of 80,000 bales a week, against an average consumption of 54,000 bales a week in the preceding year. 54,000 bales a week in the preceding year. This year a consumption 62,000 bales a This year a consumption 62,000 week is satisipated, of which $5,000 bales are American. But a difference of three December cents a pound in the price of the raw material would affect consumption about 2000 bales a week. The improvement in milis and the substantiation of new and January improved for old and worn out machinery have led to an increase of spindle power that will require increased supplies of the Fe staple. This increased demand for the raw material is by no means limited to England. It also extends to the Continent. Germany is rapidly increasing the consumption of cotton, and France will require at least 300 000 bales more than crease in American consumption. Boll the North and South now use more cotton than ever before. The very large Amarican commercially. Money has been than ever before. The very large Amarican commercially.
